Knott County Children.

Last week's issue of the News contained a short article regarding the holiday jaunt undertaken by 21 pupils and some of the teachers of the Settlement School at Hindman, Knott county. They were at Lexington when the news of their trip was first sent out. They went to Cincinnati, and the following from the Enquirer tells of what they saw and did in that Queen City. The News feels quite sure that the trip and its incidents have been useful objects lessons to those who participated in the pleasant outing, and that the daily bath will have been the cause of much moral and physical good.

"An interesting group of 21 boys and girls from a mountain school at Hindman, Knott county, Kentucky, had the time of their lives yesterday in enjoying a trip to the Zoo, this city. Many had not before traveled on a railway train. They saw many wonderful sights out at the Zoo, and in the city. They arrived here near noon, soon gazed in wonder at the Tyler-Davidson Fountain, and the skyscrapers, and not long afterward at the hippopotamuses, zebras, lions and numerous other animals engaged their attention at the Zoo. They had a good dinner at a restaurant. Later, they rode through Eden Park, visited the American Book Company, and left for home last night.

"The children were pupils of Miss Katherine Pettit and Miss Mary Stone, who conduct the Social Settlement School at Hindman, the school being under the auspices of the Kentucky W. C. T. U. Mrs. Frances Beauchamp, President of the Kentucky W. C. T. U., met the happy children and teachers at the train, also Miss Allen Paddock and C. H. Dietrich were on the train. The trip to the Zoo was a reward for children of the school who had taken a bath every day for one year."

BIG COAL DEAL.

Pike County Lands Sold to Eastern Company.

A big deal in coal lands that will mean much to that section was completed a few days ago in Pike county when Messrs. Z. Taylor Vinson and Donald Clark, of Huntington, took up options on between 20,000 and 40,000 acres lying on the waters of Blackberry and Pond creeks, in Pike county.

The purchase price represents an outlay of nearly one million dollars as it is understood that the lowest price paid was $25 per acre. Included in this acreage is all the holdings of the Knott brothers on Blackberry. In fact Messrs. Vinson and Clark are said to have secured all of the land on Blackberry with the exception of a few small tracts and that which was in the lease of the now defunct Pike Coaleries company.

There has been a great deal of speculation as to what parties Messrs. Vinson and Clark are for and one report has it that the purchaser is the United States Coal and Oil company. The superintendent of this company's operation at Holden was in the party that inspected the lands a few days ago. Another report is that Senator Watson and Hon. J. C. C. Mayo are interested.

It is believed that the purchase was made for the purpose of development as a bill was very recently put through congress authorizing the construction of a bridge across Tug river at the mouth of Blackberry. It is stated also that another act was passed authorizing a bridge at Williamson.

The Pond Creek lands included in the deal are on the head of the stream and it is said that the coal under them can be taken out down Blackberry. But for the entire length of Pond creek the hills are full of the finest coal in the country, and the tip is away from Blackberry. No operations would be needed to road down Pond creek, which is into Tug River at Williamson.

The completion of this deal was heard with great interest. It was hoped that it would mean the end of the coal monopoly in the region. To those

County Election Commissioners.

Frankfort, Ky., Aug. 26. — How badly split is the Republican party in Kentucky was shown today at a meeting of the State Board of Election Commissioners when county election commissioners were named for the various counties of the State. In eight counties there are such warm factional fights among the Republicans that no commission was named, the Republican members of the commission asking that their counties be passed until an investigation could be made of the protests against the men recommended by the county committees.

The following is a list of the election commissioners for the counties in this section. In each instance the first named is the Republican member of the board: Boyd, S. S. Willis and George B. Martin; Carter, Winfield Scott and Dr. J. M. Strother; Elliott, John F. White and Joe Fields; Floyd, S. C. Ferguson and G. P. Archer; Johnson, W. H. Stone and George W. Preston; Knott, E. A. Hammond and J. D. Martin; Maoffin, W. L. Mays and W. P. Cochran; Martin, J. E. Maynard and Clay Williamson, and Pike, J. F. Pauley and W. H. Flannery. Lawrence, W. A. Copley and Robt. Dixon.

Five Italians Killed.

Saturday morning Drs. Thompson and Campbell were called by phone to Shelby Gap to render medical and surgical aid to a number of Italians, who were blown up on the railroad construction work of Ballard and Herring, contractors.

The men were working at the time of the explosion with others under an Italian foreman, in a deep cut. A hole had been drilled down to the bottom of the rock cut—twenty-seven feet deep, in which seventeen kegs of blasting powder had been deposited, when all at once, for some unknown cause, the blast "let off," instantly killing four Italians and fatally wounding another. Everything was done for the wounded man by the physicians possible, but he died Monday morning at about 10 o'clock.

The contractors had the dead bodies removed for burial, and the men buried on a little hill near the camp.

Such accidents are to be deplored, but can not be helped. They occur, and seemingly without any known cause, many times.—Pikeville Exchange.

Death of Mrs. G. B. Gray.

Mrs. G. B. Gray died at her home at E. K. Junction, on Sunday, August 27, after a long illness caused by a complication of diseases. She was buried at the Junction, where for several years Mr. Gray has been operator and C. and O. ticket agent. Mrs. Gray, formerly Miss Julia Butler, was born at Peach Orchard, this county, 48 years ago. She was a resident of Louisa several years, Mr. Gray being C. and O. agent during that period. Mrs. Gray is survived by her husband, one son and five daughters. The son is Ed Gray, who for some time been C. and O. agent at Chapman, near this city. The daughters are: Anna Blanche, of Texas; Lucille, of Ohio; Doris, of Kentucky; and two others, one of whom is a resident of Louisville.

Mrs. Gray was a devoted wife and mother much liked and respected by her many friends. She was for many years a member of the M. E. Church, South, at the Junction.

Robbery at Fort.

The postoffice at Fort, Va., was robbed Tuesday night of this week. The robbery was the Big Sandy made by way of entrance was through the front door. The thieves, who were armed, entered the postoffice and took from the safe a large sum of money. The robbery was a great loss to the community. The thieves are being sought by the authorities.

CIRCUIT COURT.

Judge A. J. Kirk Presiding as Special Judge.

Large Attendance, Good Juries, and Prospects Are Fine for an Effective Term.

The August term of the Lawrence Circuit Court began on Monday last, Judge A. J. Kirk, of Pikeville, presiding. Judge Hannah is at his home, sick with typhoid fever, and Judge Kirk was appointed by Governor Willson to sit as judge for the term or until his own court should convene. The Commonwealth's Attorney for this district, John M. Waugh, is here, vigorous and capable as usual. The following grand jury was impaneled and sworn:

John H. Thompson, foreman, William R. Vinson, G. G. Berry, Isaac Adams, D. S. Berry, W. F. Back, W. M. Gussler, George Preston, W. S. Edwards, John Thompson, Jr., Walter Ross, Albert Smith.

Following the usual charge the following petit jury was chosen for the term:

R. A. Stone, W. L. Dean, John B. Preston, Hugh Dobbins, W. L. George, John W. Bradley, John Irvin, J. W. Shannon, J. B. Elkins, Wm. Justice, Charlie Preston, M. L. Gambill.

No. 2. A. H. Moore, E. Stratton, T. B. Kise, Wm. Chapman, J. M. Cyrus, J. F. Davis, S. D. Wellman, P. P. Holbrook, Millard Fyffe, J. C. Adams, L. M. Graham, Jerry Young.

One of the first acts of the grand jury was to return an indictment against John Pack, charging him with wilfully and maliciously shooting and wounding his wife with intent to kill. One day of next week was designated as the time for a trial of the case, and Pack was admitted to bail in the sum of $2,500. Failing to give it he was sent to jail. Pack had been in the hospital since the day after his attempt upon his wife's life until Tuesday. Mrs. Pack is at the home of a relative in this city, waiting for the time when she will be strong enough to permit of a search for the numerous balls in her body and their extraction. Mrs. Pack's ultimate recovery is by no means assured.

At the last term of court several Louisa storekeepers and restaurant men were indicted for selling on Sunday. On a call of the cases each defendant was fined in one case and the others against each of them were filed away. The jury as now impaneled is without mercy when it comes to trying anybody for illegal retailing of whiskey. There have been several trials and convictions, and in each instance the dose administered was large enough to produce an impression. Note the following: Lon Gambill, one hundred dollars fine and 40 days in jail; M. J. Boggs, one hundred dollars fine and 40 days in jail, same against the same 73 dollars, same versus the same, 60 dollars. Sheriff Carter thinks he will never have to make another arrest in that district for selling liquor.

There is a large docket, but the size of the docket is not always a good index to the length of the term. The crowd in attendance was very large on the first day, but since then it has dwindled in numbers. Judge Kirk has had a large experience on the bench and presides as one familiar with the law and its administration.

Last week a rattlesnake was killed by William Morgason in the front yard of Apollon Hourigan, who lives on the Danville pike two miles north east of town. When first seen the snake was lying at full length on the grass near the front door of Mr. Hourigan's residence. As soon as it was discovered the dogs were called, when they approached the snake it threw itself into a coil and prepared for battle. The dogs however failed to attack the reptile or even to near it and Mr. Morgason killed it.

now storm, which covered the entire peak to a depth of a foot on the level, accompanied by a fifty-mile wind broke on the peak. From the positions of the bodies when found it is believed that the couple sought comparative shelter in the lee of a huge boulder, but a short distance from the track. Both wore very lightweight clothing.

From every section of the country come reports of the prevalence of typhoid fever. In the Guyana Valley a large number of cases have developed in the last ten days. True, it is said, to the bad water. The hospital at Logan has a number of cases now on hand. A good deal of this affliction is to be expected in the country where the drought has made the water bad and scarce.

This was the reply made by John Stewart one of the big fruit men in the state, when asked what the fruit crop would be this year in West Virginia. "The orchards in the lower lands of the estate will make a poor showing, while even some of the orchards in the higher lands, I am informed, have experienced long dry spells that will greatly affect the out-put."

estimate, however, has been revised following a miscalculation in laying the levy, the monthly pay of teachers being reduced five dollars from the first estimate, and the school term reduced to seven months instead of eight. This is a splendid showing, and next year the pay of teachers will be put up to the $60.00 scale, and the eight months term provided as was intended this year. Lincoln district is in the southwestern corner of Wayne county. It has poor roads, but its people have always led the other districts of the county in raising for public schools.—Wayne News.

Cutting Out the Scrubs.

The Pure-Bred Sire League which was recently originated by Dr. A. S. Alexander of the College of Agriculture of the University of Wisconsin is spreading through other states rapidly. The live stock of Illinois organized a Pure-Bred Sire Club last June, and the plan is also being introduced in Indiana, Michigan, Louisiana and some other states.

In joining the pure-bred sire club each Illinois farmer pledged himself to use only pure-bred registered sires in the production of all farm animals so far as possible; to advocate the general use of pure-bred sires and secure at least one new member to the club; to work for the improvement of purebred sires in breed, character, individual excellence, quality, size, soundness and prepotence; to discourage the use of grade, mongrel and scrub sires, and the sires and dams irrespective of breeding that are diseased, hereditarily unsound, constitutionally unfit or undesirable in conformation and character.

A good market for the American trotter is rapidly growing in Australia. Many new breeding establishments are being started every year and a growing demand for American trotting stallions and mares of good breeding is apparent. The light harness horse races in that country are gaining in popularity. At a recent public sale held at Melbourne, where several trotters and pacers were sold, thirty-one American bred horses were snapped up at long prices.

The state census bulletin of Illinois for 1910 shows that value of horses and colts was $163,000, while the report for 1909 was but $69,600,000, showing a gain in a single year of $93,400,000. Ten years ago the value of the cattle in the state greatly exceeded the amount invested in horses; but today the situation is reversed amazingly, regardless of the fact that the raising of cattle should have been extremely profitable by reason of the high price of beef.

Temperature of Butter.

Butter to be first-class must be made and kept at a temperature at 60 degrees. Not one cellar in a hundred is as cool as this, but, on the contrary, the great majority of them will show a temperature as high as 68 to 70 degrees. This is entirely too warm for cream to rise or for butter to keep well. The worst difficulty is in the making at such a high temperature, as the cream is liable to get rancid, while in the pans waiting for it to rise thick enough to skim. If the butter is not made rancid by the putrid condition of the cream, it can be kept sweet by submerging it in brine, which will lower the temperature several degrees. Most cellars however, can be made at least fifteen degrees cooler than the air outside by shutting them up tight and allowing no hot air to get in. I know of one cellar (I am speaking now of farm cellars remote from the plants); which is being kept closed day and night, and the thermometer stands at 64 to 66 degrees, rising to the latter temperature in the middle of the day, when it will make fully 80 degrees in the shade out of doors.

First-class butter can be made at a temperature of 66 degrees, provided the milk is set in shallow vessels—pans strained half full—and then skimmed just as soon as the cream rise, and the cream churned before putrefaction begins. In warm weather cream should not stand more than two days; that is, it should be churned the second day after skimming. At a temperature of 60 degrees the cream will keep better, and so will the butter and this temperature is most desirable, but how are the majority of farmers to get it? The patent coolers with ice will produce it or a lower degree if necessary, but the great majority to the farmers cannot afford them, so they must get as near to 60 degrees as possible by shutting out the heat and by being prompt and vigilant in the care of the milk and cream, remembering that a putrid taint in the cream will ruin a whole batch of butter and in a short time it will become rancid and must be sold as low grade.

Laundry on the Farm.

To those who are a rack—it can be made by a good smith from an old wagon tire about 75 cents. This is also to swing a kettle of meat or vegetables to cook in summer a handful of fire, or in winter suffer no uneasiness again overturned kettle. I would be without mine for any reason. The smaller kettle can be lowered to the desired height by a wire hook.

For a wash house I would build a medized room in the most convenient place to kitchen and water, joining the kitchen wall would one side, also save ex-posure step. If not otherwise supplied with rain water, enough gutter to fill rain barrels would cost little. We have a good-sized cistern on the porch which cost $35, a pump, iron top, all complete, already have a never-failing water same porch, but I would give up well first.

Build either a chimney or good furnace, with flue, one open for wash put, the other for drying, a heavy piece of sheet, being laid over it; then for drying, etc., you have a place of protection and comfort, where dirty work may be done without exposure. This furnace can be built on one corner.

Along the wall the height to suit you a shelf, sloping a little toward the wall and extending through the wall, over which have wood shutters between studdings, swung on center on pins. These will be air in summer, and can be at any time to turn water out with lifting tubs.

Have plenty of windows for air light, several wooden shutters as above mentioned, only long will cost less and add comfort in summer. A smaller shelf over for soap, blueing, etc.

Athes rack is very convenient, but stretched across corners do well.

Tw down a few old rugs to save our tired feet, and let me add my rubber heels once and you'll bless the day.

Procure two zinc tubs, a boiler if you like, or, better still, a wringer machine (I have been using for fourteen years, cost $1.00 still very good) and wringer your choice, a box of borax, a good soap; soak your clothes overnight and washday won't be such a bugbear, especially if your "de John" or John's son will run the washer an hour or so for you.

In hot weather I use naphtha saw without boiling for clothes not too dirty, thus saving labor and having hot clothes.

For ironing day (divide this into its, instead of wearing out in) provide a nice light board so you can sit down for all except large pieces. The every-day tools, sheets, underwear, etc., after being run through wringer and we shaken, do just as well without thus saving time and life for resting the Big Sandy News and our good literature.

I offer no suggestions as to cost, as prices vary in different localties; the brick mason and the carpenter can soon give estimates, as if your John is handy with tools he can do a good deal of the work himself, with you to help and encourage.

EFFICIENCY OF THE BIBLE.

As the Text-Book of the S. S.

By Rev. L. M. Copley.

Every institution of learning has its text-books for the various schools which it embraces. This proper since there must be some recognized standard in every department of human knowledge.
Law, medicine, theology, geology, astronomy, all the various sciences as well as the other various branches of human knowledge, have their respective text-books or recognized standards. But the recognition of a standard does not preclude the use of other books in a given line.
A standard is that by which others are to be measured. So it is in the realm of religious thought; the Bible is the one supreme authority by which all human conduct, creeds and opinions are to be tried. Is our Bible sufficient for this function?

Before answering this important question, it is well for us to recognize an important fact, namely: that there are various Bibles or Sacred Books in the world, each standing in the relation to some great religious system that our Bible sustains to Christianity. "The world has seven Bibles—the Koran of the Mohammedans, the Eddas of the Scandinavians, the Tripitaka of the Buddhists, the Five Kings of the Chinese, the Three Books of the Japanese, the Vedas of the Hindus, and the Bible of the Christians." The Bible is the only one of these which is a book of revelation, and the only one which is a book of prophecy. It is the only one which is a book of history, and the only one which is a book of poetry. It is the only one which is a book of science, and the only one which is a book of art. It is the only one which is a book of wisdom, and the only one which is a book of power. It is the only one which is a book of love, and the only one which is a book of truth. It is the only one which is a book of life, and the only one which is a book of death. It is the only one which is a book of hope, and the only one which is a book of despair. It is the only one which is a book of joy, and the only one which is a book of sorrow. It is the only one which is a book of peace,
and the only one which is a book of war. It is the only one which is a book of mercy, and the only one which is a book of judgment.
It is the only one which is a book of grace, and the only one which is a book of wrath. It is the only one which is a book of kindness,
and the only one which is a book of cruelty. It is the only one which is a book of gentleness, and the only one which is a book of fierceness.
It is the only one which is a book of meekness, and the only one which is a book of anger. It is the only one which is a book of patience,
and the only one which is a book of impatience. It is the only one which is a book of humility, and the only one which is a book of pride.
It is the only one which is a book of modesty, and the only one which is a book of shame. It is the only one which is a book of chastity,
and the only one which is a book of uncleanness. It is the only one which is a book of purity, and the only one which is a book of filth.
It is the only one which is a book of holiness, and the only one which is a book of uncleanness. It is the only one which is a book of righteousness,
and the only one which is a book of unrighteousness. It is the only one which is a book of truthfulness,
and the only one which is a book of falsehood. It is the only one which is a book of honesty, and the only one which is a book of dishonesty.
It is the only one which is a book of integrity, and the only one which is a book of hypocrisy. It is the only one which is a book of sincerity,
and the only one which is a book of insincerity. It is the only one which is a book of faithfulness, and the only one which is a book of unfaithfulness. It is the only one which is a book of loyalty, and the only one which is a book of disloyalty.
It is the only one which is a book of courage, and the only one which is a book of cowardice. It is the only one which is a book of strength,
and the only one which is a book of weakness. It is the only one which is a book of valor, and the only one which is a book of timidity.
It is the only one which is a book of manliness, and the only one which is a book of effeminacy. It is the only one which is a book of masculinity,
and the only one which is a book of femininity. It is the only one which is a book of manhood, and the Eddas from the eleventh century; the Tripitaka from the seventh century B. C.; the Five Kings of the Chinese from 1100 B. C.; the Vedas are supposed by the best scholars to antedate 1100 B. C., and the Zendavesta about 1200 B. C. The Christian Scriptures, the Old and New Testaments, were written during a period covering about sixteen hundred years by about forty authors beginning with Moses and closing with the Revelation by John the Beloved. Truly there is no lack of variety in Bibles and religious in this world, and these foreign Bibles and religions in this world, and these foreign Bibles, let us generously remember, are just as dear to the hearts of hundreds of millions of people as is our own precious Book to us, and these various religions are just as devoutly believed in and propagated by their respective votaries as is our beloved Christianity by us. If we cannot approve all the teachings of these various Sacred Books, nor endorse the practices of these different systems of religion, we can, at least, look with true Christian charity on things that are dear to the hearts of hundreds of millions of our fellowmen in this wide, wide world. If the ancient test of judging a tree by its fruit is to be applied to these Books and Systems, without any doubt whatever the award will be made to our own beloved Bible and Christianity. This is not the place to enter into a comparative study of Books and Systems, but let the history of civilization settle the question in the mind of every competent judge.

Accepting our Bible as the word of God to men, let us frankly face the question: Is it sufficient as a rule of faith and practice? Or must it be supplemented by the teachings of men? Or is it superfluous and should its teachings be curtailed by human wisdom? These are serious and practical questions which should not be either evaded or treated indifferently. If it were purely a human product, it would surely be found wanting when weighed in the balances of human needs and experience. Truly it was written by men and bears some of the marks of human finiteness in minor matters. But it is also Super-human; it is Divine in its origin and mission. Its message is God-breathed, inspired, and is infallible within its scope. Its voice is that of God, but its language is that of the sons of men. Since it is God's Book, we would naturally expect to find it entirely sufficient for its proper purpose. But what is that purpose? Surely not to tell us all that God knows. No indeed.
When God gave us the Book, He never attempted to exhaust His own infinite store-house of knowledge in its pages. All He meant to do was to tell men just what they needed to know in order to fulfill their proper mission here in this world.
Hence it is primarily a Book for this life and this world. To be sure its light shines beyond the bounds of time occasionally, but not so frequently as we may be wont to think. It was designed for immediate use to men, and incidentally to forecast the future, but the great bulk of its message applies here and now. It is chiefly a Time Book. It contains all we need to know in this life along with just a foretaste of what we shall know hereafter. But it is eminently sufficient for its purpose.
Otherwise it would not be justified in
